OUR MISSION

Children's Specialty Clinic of San Luis Valley (CSCSLV) is serving children with complex behavioral and sensory needs championing them regardless of race, insurance, or socio-economic background. CSCSLV is creating a novel, multidisciplinary, intensive pediatric and medical therapy clinic to improve the health, education and community disparities that children with disabilities, and their families, are experiencing as a result of their disability. CSCSLV is promoting the narrative that children dance to the beat of their own drum and aims to be a place where differences are celebrated, and where little ones and their families find the support they truly deserve.

OUR PHILOSOPHY

Our clinic's programs will boost health equity for kids with disabilities and their families while creating local jobs. By teaming up with high schools and colleges for volunteer and internship opportunities, we'll offer a glimpse into the medical field and support roles. We aim to foster empathy and respect, empowering parents as advocates. Plus, our trauma-informed approach helps us better understand and support these children's needs.

OUR PROGRAM

We are looking for funding to kick-start our capital campaign to provide collaborative multidisciplinary intensive therapy care for 3-5 year olds. If we can effectively create this program, we may be able to truly shift their long-term trajectory to a more individually successful and socially integrated child earlier. Furthermore, we are striving to be free of the imitations that children's medical diagnoses or medical insurance coverage, or lack thereof, may have on their ability to access equal services.
